Charitable Women Detail the Work in the Institutions Under Their Direction-Sister Love a Motor to Guide Preing Women Back From a Wayward Life.

The hearing of the District charitable in stitutions was again taken up by the Joint Congressional Committee on Charittes sitting in the Senate District Committee room, yesterday afternoon. Charitable work for young women was the special subject to which the session was devoted. The direction which the discussion was t take was set forth in the following topics, as set forth in the schedule: Temporary homes for young women; the need of sevof the Good Shepherd; how far this work should be maintained by the public; and if there is duplication in the work The hearing was conducted by Senators McMillan and Faulkner and Representative

Northway of the committee It began about 2:10 o'clock and there were present about twenty persons, repre senting the following institutions: The Weman's Christian Association, the Woman's Christian Home, the Association of Works of Mercy, the Hape and Help Mission, the House of the Good Shepherd and the Home for Friendless Colored Girls

Especially favorable impressions seem to have been made upon the committee by the reports of the Hope and Help Misand the Home for Friendless Colored Girls The members inquired specifically into the work of these institutions and upon dismissing the copresentatives remarked that the reports they brought showed good work done and was evidence of the need of fur-ther Governmental assistance

When the officers of the Home for s Colored Girls expatiated on the large field to be covered by the institution and the small means at its comcommittee evinced particular interest, in structed the officers how to proceed to seemre the needed money and gave the assurance of the committee's assistance when the matter shall come up to be

The first institution heard when the committee convened was the Woman's Christian Association of Thirteenth street represented by Mrs. W. F. Cliff and Mrs. M. E. Preeman. They said the home was trict. It was founded in 1869. In 1870 it was incorporated. It is often onfounded with the Y- M. C. A., but is an entirely different organization. Several classes of women are benefited by the home. Old women who have no homes of their own are given permanent shelter. Some are given temporary houses after being in hespitals. Women who come pere from other cities trying to procure pensions or offices often become stranded and these, too, are accommodated. Working women whose cartings are not enough for self support are supplied with board and rooms on the payment of nominal board. The institution is strictly non-sectarian No questions as to religion are asked the applicants for help.

Restoration of fallen women is another part of the work. There are usually from eight to ten of these woman in the bone. Last year 5,692 lodgings were furnished and 6,674 meals given. The home is sup-ported partly by the Government and partly by private subscription. The an mual appropriation is $4,000. About $3. 000 additional is raised by grivate sub

The Association of Works of Mercy of 2408 K street, represented by Sisters Doro-thea and Mary, was the next to present a report. The association, they said, is of the Ediscopal denomination. The annual appropriation from the Government is $1,800. The annual expenses are $3,000 The association furnishes what is known as long homes for fallen women; that is, no girl is received for a period less than one year hey are eventually found employment. The report of the Hope and Help Mission of 318 Third street was made by Mrs. Bar-rett and Mrs. LaFetra. The home, these ladies said, confines its work wholly to fallen women. These girls are taken without regard to color, religion or age.

A special study is made of each girl, with regard to the particular failing which caused her at this point. No means of reformation are employed other than that of love. The girls are told that it is their own home and are assured of the love and sympathy of the workers. The home accommodated last year 397 girls, the vast majority of whor were permanently reformed.

Father James T. Mackin and Mrs. Vance reporting for the House of the Good Shep berd, corner of Thirty-sixth and T street were next heard. The House is devoted the reclamation of fallen women and also to caring for girls who are liable to go astray. The body which controls the House has had 200 years' experience in this work and is composed of Christian nurses, who are specially trained for the work.

Congress annually appropriates $2,700 for the society. The expenses are $7,000 and are made up by the pay for service done by the inmates and by private sub

The house is controlled by a board of directors, composed of persons of different denominations. No question of sect is asked inmates, but the regular services of the Catholic Church are carried out. As soon as the girls are able to work and show signs of reformation homes are found for them. There are at present forty-six institution of their own free will may sent by the authorities are confined until an order for their dismissal is received from The Home for Friend the same source. The Home for Friend-less Colored Girls of Mount Plensant, rep-resented by Mrs. Sykes and Mrs. Caroline Taylor was next accorded a hearing.

The home these ladies reported cover a field entirely its own. It is devoted wandering in the alleys and back streets The girls are kept two years, taught to do housework, and then homes in good families are found for them. Old colored women, are past work, are also ared for superintendent of the home, told how. ne times, the officers are forced to beg at ing secretary, J. R. THE MINSTREL ATHLETES

Pleasant Entertainment at the Columbia Last Night.

Songs by the C. A. C. Boys and Full Dress Performance of the Roman Ladder Act.

The C. A. C. boys gave their minstrels at the Columbia last night, and they were entirely modern, up-to-date, gay, pleasing and creditable to the projectors and participators. A big house greeted the performers and cheered them on to do their best. The entertainment was given in two parts. The first part was given over to the regulation ministrel first part. F. W. Childs presided with the grace of Hobart by a goodly row of congsters, and the comic bulwarks on the ends included Joseph Callen, R. J. Feall, jr., C. D. Vinning, George O'Conner, J. A. Magee, and F. H. Parsons. The jokes were all fresh and bit off all the local people and issues. There was some dodging through the audience as shafts struck the heads of the marks. Taylor Cronin was greatly admired for his singing of "I Live in the Heart of the Joe Cullen gave "Old Town" new and good style, J. C. Renex song "Jack's the Boy" with pleasing effect, George O'Conner caught the house with his comic capers, vocat and otherwise, in "Ma Lu-Lu," and the quartet covered themselves with several kinds of glory. They are the Home. They reported that the institution | C. A. C.'s pride, and their rester includes Hensey, Gough, Asmussen, and ronin. A club medley brought the curtain lown on the first act, and the colonels of

was shifted. The second part was devoted to athletics, and it was the finest display of amateur abletic work ever seen in this city. The numbers were varied and numerous, which cortails individual mention, but everyone connected with this portion of the program leserves the largest measure of praise. It oponed with a wanddrill, under the direction TT B. Nolan, ir., by Messrs, King, Thompon, Padgett, Miller, Ross, L. and J. Delter, Tremmer, Cushman, Collins, Antrim, Barry, Mann, Hubbard, Fox, J. and T. Doran, Bris coe, Renshaw, Lipscomb, and Tibbetts. A "brother act" was performed by Messrs. rossby, Ross and Waters. They were folowed by a bardo act by Messrs. Culien and ollius, then came a horizontal bar act by Mesars, Sewall, Stinemetz, Harding, Boss, Alger, of Baltimore, in a comic monologue. Prof. Carter and H. B. Moore gave a sparring exhibition. Then came the Roman ladder act, which was clean cut and finished, and the carlous figures were presented with a finish and a promptness which would have done credit to the most expert pro fessionals. The set was presented in full dress and was as attractive in appearance as it was finished in execution. Johnson, in masterly manner, performed with him were: Messrs. Waters, Cabrera, Ross, Antrim, Allen, Holbrook, Elder, and Maddox. Master J. Hart Cabrera's solo bicycle act was capital, as were Prof. Crossley and Masters Nolan, Miller, and Tremmer in acrobatics. The last portions of the bill were devoted to a clover parallel bar act, original musical specialties by Will Haley, and pyramids by eighteen of the club's athletes. The work of the members in all the ati-letic numbers reflected great credit upon Prof. John Crossley's excellent training and coaching, and the whole performance was expert and creditable to the diligent purveyors in every respect.

A New Objection to Removing the Postoffice Department-

An Engineer's Report That the New Building Will Not Sustain the Vast Weight of Files.

A grave and new complication arose yes erday in the matter of the proposed re moval of the Postoffice Department from its present quarters to a place in the city postoffice building. The latest objection to the building is that it will not sustain the weight which will be exacted of it. oday that a particular and trusted friend of the Postmaster General, a friend in whose ability as an engineer the Postmaster Gen eral has confidence, has rendered a report showing that if the records and files of the Postoffice Department be paced in the new building, as proposed, a calamity

This report is being kept under close over and will not be released until the Postmaster General enters his final plea There is no disposition to reflect on the strength of the city postoffice building and its adequacy for all the uses for which it was designed, but the files and records of the department weigh thousands of tons, and as the city postoffice is to occupy the basement and lower floors these files and records would have to be stored in one of the upper stories, and it was at time proposed to store them away in the

The department will also make a deter mined effort to prevent this transfer on the ground of insufficiency of floor space The area of the new city postoffice build-ing would be 2,000 square feet less than the area into which the Postoffice Depart ment is already crowded. Of course, new building has more room than the Postoffice Department building proper, but then, adjacent to the department built ing are several reated buildings. It is admitted at the Postoffice Department that the rental of private buildings for public purposes is bad business, and it is probable that Postmaster General Gary will urge the Wanamaker made, that, two stories be dited to the present Postoffice Department building

It is reported by engineers that the pres ent walls are thick enough to bear the added weight, and the addition could be made without materially interfering with the operations of the department.

The Postmaster General has in his pos-sion a report showing that the strength of the new city postoffice building is not equal to the demands which the files and records of the Postoffice Department would make upon it were these files and records stored in one of the upper stories.

BRAVOS FOR HUBERMAN.

Splendid Enthusiasm for the Great Boy Violinist Yesterday.

Bropista w Huberman gave his second can ert at the Columbia, yesterday afternoon The audience was larger than was expected in view of the downpour of rain all day, but it was in no measure comparable with the desert of the great artist. If the weather had been propitious the Poish boy would have had his deserts as one of the greatest artists of the century, in an overwhelming house, as large as it was enthudastic. It is seiden such entimatem is manifested on public occasions. Mrs Hobert and son, the British ambus and family, the Austrian ambassador and family, and many of theother social leaders were present.

As before, the program was made up of six numbers, of which Miss Heyman played three. This young woman is a pisniste of nest pronounced ability. She has temperament and technique and stands ad Huberman. Yesterday her best performance was of the 'Fire Music' from 'Die Walkure.' It was truly remarkable with how much legerity, yet firm and expressive body, she gave this difficult score, which we are accustomed to hear with all the Robert C. DEATH CAUSED BY GRIEF

Martin Hebner Follows His Motherin-Law to the Grave.

He Loved Her Dearly, and the Shock of Her Death Caused His Own.

Twice within less than twenty-four hours death has entered the home of Mi Martin Hebner, No. 1413 P street north-west. On Saturday morning Mrs. Heudetta Berger, Mrs. Hebner's mother, died after an illness of nearly three years, and yesterday moraing Mr. Hebner himself was ound dead in bed. It is thought that the latter's death was the result of grief over the death of his mother-in-law.

Mrs. Berger had lived with her son law for many years, and there existed be-tween them the greatest affection. When he retired to his room Sunday night he was worn out with grief and left his wife with some friends who were to remain at the house all night. He did not complain of being ill, how ever, and when his little nephew, who slept in an adjoining room, heard his uncie breathing hard during the early hours of the morning, he simply thought that he was still erieving and did not disturb him. After a short time he heard no more.

Shortly after 7 o'clock Mrs. Hebner Went to her husband's chamber to arouse him for breakfast and found him dead.

It is supposed that death was due to heart disease brought on by his excessive sorrow. Mr. Hebper was thirty years of age and a native of Baltimore, but has lived in this city since hoyhood. For a number of years past he has been engaged in the confectionery business at No. 1508 Fourteenth street northwest. He was a member of Washington Commandery, No. 1, K. T., and Columbia Lodge of Odd Fellows, which organizations will have charge of the funeral, which will be held tomorrow afternoon. The funeral of Mrs. Berger was held resterday afternoon and the services conducted by Rev. G. Facius, who will also officiate at Mr. Hebner's obsequies. Interment was made at Prospect Hill Cemeters, where the remains of her son-in-law will also be buried

WEYLER'S WOEFUL VICTIMS

Naked, Bleeding and Starving to Death-The Alabaum Senator's Dramatic Plea-The Mississippi Floods-Interchange of Words Between Two Southern Sepators

In the Senate vesterday the joint resoluion recognizing belligerency on the Island of Cuba, which had been introduced some weeks ago by Mr. Morgan, of Alabama. was taken up, and Mr. Morgan asked for a vote upon it. Objection was interposed by Mr. Hale, of Maine, who said he had only just returned to the city from the funeral obsequies of his colleague in the House, Mr. Milliken, and was not pre-pared to speak upon the resolution today. He said that other Sengtors, among the Mr. Marrill, of Vermont, also desired to speak upon it. He assured Mr. Morgan that he had no desire to delay action in the matter, and was quite willing to have the vote taken as soon as it could properly be done. He could not, however, agree to have a time fixed for such vote, as Mr. Morgan suggested, but he was as auxious to have it out of the way as the Senator from Alghama.

Mr. Morgan said that he had reliable authority for the statement that, under the present policy of Gen. Weyler there were thousands of people literally starving be death in Cuba. In the city of Matanzas, and in other cities, and towns, there were hundreds of persons naked, discased, starving and begging for the crumbs that fell from the tables of the rich.

That condition of things had been brought about, he said, by the most inhuman method of warfare that Weyler had instituted in Cuba-that of driving th people from their homes, where they might he able to subsist themselves, and herding them up in towns and cities, where they were required to remain, under promise of support from the Spanish government.

That promise was not only not kept, but was wifully violated. He was afraid that before the Senator from Maine would get persons would starve to death in Cuba United States were sending money and provisions to India to help the starving Hindress, but no such contributions were sent to Cuba. If any attempt to do so were made, the contributions would be intercepted by the ships of the United States; or, if not, they would be refused admittance into the ports of Cuba. "Well, sir," he explained, dramatically, "I can not remain in a state of contentment while I know that such things are going on; while I know that these sufferings, these woes, these outrages, these borrible inflictions, are going on under the name of Spanish warfare."

Let the burden of responsibility fall upon those that are willing to bear it I am not In the name of God and humanity I am not willing to share in that burden No. sir; not for a day. What I conceive to be the duty of the Senate is forthwith to act on the joint resolution and either pass it or refuse to pass it.

Let us stand in an honest and sincere light before God and homanity. not attempt to deceive ourselves, and to deceive mankind at large, with the idea that we have got any human sympathy left in our bosoms, or any feeling of resent-ment against the outrages and barbarisies perpetrated in Cuba, while we stand here taking thought about the expression of our bonest views on this great subject.

knowing that, in doing so, I am exposing men to suffering, starvation, disease, and death, from which they would be relieved by the passage of this joint resolution, whether passed by the House and approved

Mr. Hale said that he did not agree Mr. Morgan as to the present conditio of things in Cuba. Nor did he think that the passage of the joint resolution would tend to improve matters there. He thought that it would rather intensify them. He assured Mr. Morgan that he had no desire to delay action, and would be ready to proceed with the discussion tomorrow.

With this the colloquy closed and the joint esolution went over until tomorrow.

Mr Chandler introduced a joint resolu tion appropriating $50,000 for the expenses of the Congress of the Universal Postal Union now assembling in Wash ngton, and after remarks in

THE DELAY OF ANOTHER DAY Increased with Age

Dr. Walker,

The measure of success with which Dr. Walker has been favored remains a source of continued surprise. The wonder of it never ceases to be a topic of conversation among his professional brethren. Indeed, that wonder increases as time passes, and that wonder increases as time passes, and wonder be only temporary, has proved to be petitianent and abiding, and continues to increase as the public becomes more and more familiar with the genuine meritupen which it is based.

Many explanations are offered, varying in frankness, according to the spirit of the speaker. Superior skill, experience and training are conceded by Walker, even by his tivals, but these do not alone account for his prosperity.

That his practice is today larger than it ever has been cannot alone be artiflated to truthful advertising nor to unquestionable and superior skill. Not the underlying principle of all is the fact that for Walker has with manificase, dealt with the public as a professional man should, promoding no more than he can perform any claiming no more than he accomplishes.
